

Contents

Acknowledgements	iv
Preface	v
1 Kant's Republicanism and the Cosmopolitan Persuasion	1
Kant's Republicanism and the 'Moral Personality' of States	1
The Sovereign Equality of States, Peaceful Coexistence and the International Constitution	9
Kant's Cosmopolitanism	15
Cicero's Republicanism and Stoic Cosmopolitanism: Kant in Comparison	20
John Rawls and Jürgen Habermas: Alternative Ways of Understanding Kant's Cosmopolitanism	26
2 The Languages of Human Rights and the Liberal Dialect	39
The Many Voices of the Human Rights Discourse	39
Human Rights as the New Standard of Civilisation	57
Human Rights and Democracy: Liberal Perspectives	63
3 The Globalisation of Democracy: The Right to Democratic Governance	79
The Entitlement to Democratic Governance in International Law and International Politics	79
The Ideology of Democracy Promotion	95
Excursus: Prerequisites and Causes of Democratisation	108
4 Sovereignty and Democracy	134
Conceptual Distinctions	134
The Politics of the Sovereignty Discourse	139
'Domestic Sovereignty' as 'Popular Sovereignty'	152
5 Liberal Democracy between Multiculturalism and Globalisation	195
From 'Demos' to 'Demoi': Multiculturalism and Democracy	195
Globalisation and Democracy	210
Bibliography	233
Index	255